5. Why can't I sign-in with my vendor code and Tax Identification Number:

If your vendor code is all numeric, enter only the first 6 digits and omit the last 2 digits which might be 01 or 02. Then enter your Tax Identification Number without any dashes.

When rejected, an email notification will be sent to the email address that was provided on the authorization form with specific reject reason(s).

8. Why did my Direct Deposit Authorization Form get rejected?

Below are some common rejection reasons:

- Payee name on attached document (voided check, bank statement, bank verification letter) does not match the name we have in our system.
- Banking information on attachment does not match the banking information on application (e.g. bank account number, bank account name, account type or routing number).
- The supporting document provided is not acceptable. We accept one of the following: copy of a voided check, the first page of a bank statement or a bank verification letter.

Please note that the bank verification letter must confirm the bank accountholder's name, address, account number, routing number, and account type (either checking or savings). In addition, the letter must be on the bank's original letterhead, signed by a bank representative, with his/her name, title, contact number, and bank's address.

- A third-party Direct Deposit Set-Up/Authorization Form is not an acceptable form of bank verification.

9. How will I be notified when I receive a payment?

When a payment is issued, a remittance advice will be emailed to the email address that was provided on the authorization form.

10. How long will it take for my Direct Deposit Authorization Form to be approved?

Once the authorization form is received, it takes approximately 15 business days for the vendor to be set up for direct deposit. This includes review of the authorization form and the bank verification process.

Payments are normally deposited in 2 business days after the date they are issued.

If you are interested to sign up for VSS, see #16 below for how to get access to VSS.

13. What happens if my bank account is closed?

If a payment is issued to a bank account that is closed without prior notification to the Los Angeles County, your direct deposit will be inactivated. As a result, your payment will be delayed and reissued via warrant/check .

14. What must I do if I change my bank or my account number?

You must submit a new authorization form on the Direct Deposit Website with your new banking information. Please note the following:
